

Raymond James Electronic Trading Disclaimers

Raymond James & Associates

Raymond James & Associates, Inc. (“RJ”) seeks to operate its electronic trading platform (“RJET”) in accordance with applicable regulations, and in accordance with reasonable expectations of fairness. However, potential execution counterparties in external venues may have trading objectives and/or expectations that may be adverse to your own, and so execution outcomes may vary. RJA makes no guarantee as to the performance that can be achieved through the use of RJET. This document is provided to you for informational purposes on a confidential basis for a general summary of trading services available, and intended for institutional investors (as defined by FINRA Rule 4512(c)) only and not for retail use. Nothing contained in this communication may be reproduced, redistributed or disseminated, in whole or part, without RJ’s prior written consent. Any unauthorized use is strictly prohibited.

Please note, no held, good till cancel or non-standard settlement orders will be accepted.

RJET ROUTING AND ORDER HANDLING

Unless otherwise directed in writing by the client, RJ reserves the right to change the routing table at its discretion to manage performance of RJET’S strategies. As part of RJA’s services seeking the most efficient and effective experience for client orders, your orders will be treated as “not held” and may be routed to a variety of external venues based on any of the following factors: your expressed preferences, including but not limited to a particular routing strategy or algorithm that you may elect to employ; a strategy employed on your behalf or at your request; or in the absence of instructions to the contrary, a routing table of RJ’s choosing. External venues may include, but not be limited to, public exchange markets, multi-lateral trading facilities, alternative trading systems (ATs) or broker crossing networks, or other broker-dealers consistent with your instructions or RJ’s routing logic, where applicable. While RJ maintains relationships and connectivity to a variety of such venues as part of its routing processes, RJ does not represent that it has access to all such venues that potentially may be available at any given point in time. To the extent that this document references performance, such information is indicative only and attempts to illustrate the performance, speed and latency generally associated with certain systems, order/message paths, and linkages. Actual performance may be different and, in some cases, materially slower than indicated.
